This is an example of a class blog.

If it was an individual blog, you would see class member names here to click and read.

There will be an indicator if the individual has posted a new entry.
